A Locomotive's Wild Race.

One of the wildest, most dangerous races in the history of the Lehigh Valley Railroad, made in the vain attempt to save a splendid locomotive from the wreck to which its big coal train was doomed, was made above Penn Haven Junction Pa., Saturday morning. The Lehigh Valley and Jersey Central roads cross each other at grade at Penn Haven Junction. Approaching from the northwest on the Valley Road it is decidedly "down grade." Engineer Weisel's coal train of fifty heavily loaded cars came rapidly winding its long trail around the mountain curves upon this grade that morning. At the last bend above the junction he saw the junction target set against him and a Central coal train at full speed nearing the crossing. "Down brakes," Weisel whistled as shrill as the engine could sound it. Down grade the heavy train rolled on, however, with irresistible momentum. It was no use to brake the train; Weisel realized it at once. So he had his fireman, out the engine loose from the forward car in hopes of saving the valuable machine from the wreck. Throwing the lever clear ahead and drawing down the whistle-rod to keep the locomotive shrieking, Weisel and his fireman leaped for their lives, and left the engine to speed away for its own, if it could only clear the crossing ahead of the Central train. Like a thing of life the locomotive fairly flew toward the junction. Like a creature shrieking in desperation before its doom, the engine's shrill warning echoed and re-echoed in mountain and valley. Like a luridic wild world it flew to death, the iron horse sped on, unchecked, until it cleared the junction. It crashed into the second car of the Central train, dashed all that part of the train in splinters, glanced off and rolled over on its side in front of the Central station, a dead and demolished engine. Then came the fat engine's headless train thundering down the curve. It crashed into the wreck already blocking both roads, and forty cars with their hundreds of tons of coal crashed into one great mass of ruin.

EIGHT YEARS IN A HAREM.—The local journals now supply the sequel to a mysterious abduction case which made some sensation through their columns early in the last decade. Between eight and nine years ago a young girl named Pickoff, then sixteen years of age and of remarkable personal attractions, suddenly disappeared from her widowed mother's house in Odessa. The most searching inquiries were fruitless, and she was subsequently proclaimed a missing girl, whose mother died two years ago in total ignorance of her daughter's fate. I now discover that of her abduction, Anna Pickoff, it was secretly carried to Constantinople, and eventually sold to a Salonica merchant, in whose harem she had remained until the recent death of her owner. From intelligence now received here by friends of the late Mme. Pickoff it would appear that Anna was from the first treated with uniform kindness by the Salonica merchant, who at his death bequeathed to his favorite slave the whole of his property, consisting of four houses in Salonica, five trading schooners and 5,000 Turkish pounds. The fair creature, now only in her twenty-fifth year, and still possessing her remarkable youthful beauty scarcely impaired, has placed her two boys under the educational training of the Russian monks of Mount Athos, and to their abbot she has presented one of her schooners. She is now also converting one of her Salonica houses into a Russo-Greek free school. Unfortunately, such sequel to the numerous abduction cases formerly perpetrated with the same object in this city are extremely rare. —Odessa cor. London News.

Take Simmons Liver Regulator One Dose

WORTH 100 Dollars

Dear S. L. R.—Friends: I consider one dose of Simmons Liver Regulator worth $100. I was constipated, had headache, could eat nothing with satisfaction or appetite; had the blues and felt altogether out of sorts. I resorted to blue mass, calomel, quinine and all remedies suggest ed, but only obtained temporary relief. One dose of S. L. R. did me more good than the $100 worth of doctors and doctoring. Respectfully,

T. C. MARLEY

I have been a teacher for twenty years, and during that time have had repeated attacks of headache, produced by torpid liver, and I have been entirely cured by the use of Simmons Liver Regulator. I found it to be of so mild a character in its action as not to interfere, in the least, with my duties in the school room. To those similarly situated and subject to same, I cannot too highly recommend Simmons Liver Regulator. E. A. CREEK, Campbellville, Ky.
